CREDIT WHERE DUE

Pick up almost any periodical today and somewhere between its covers will be printed some form of adverse impression of the present day juvenile depicting them in various stages of delinquency. The authors of these articles will readily admit that very few of the younger set fit into the abstract literary picture they paint, yet how often do you find a writing praising the young people that don't? — A group, incidentally, that are far in the majority.

In witness, consider those among us that recently brought credit to the garrison through their scholastic achievement — Jim Nickerson, Helen Millen and Michael Smith. They were awarded three of the four scholarships won recently at the Queen Elizabeth High School. These three students don't stand alone. We mentioned in a previous issue the excellent results attained by students from the Griesbach Schools.

Consider then the result if we were inclined to recognize these of our juveniles as much (though it should be much more) as we do the delinquent we so often decry. The later would diminish considerably in stature and take their rightful place in the lineup for recognition in a more worthy field and perhaps be replaced on the pedestal of public recognition.

To give a little more credit where credit is due might be worth a try.

HANDLE WITH CARE

Generally speaking, the response to our requests for assistance in various projects is very gratifying. In view of this, we now ask your indulgence with the problem created as a result of the School Book Rental Plan made available to Senior High School students through the Griesbach Association — see "Association Again Sponsor Book Rental Plan."

We had an occasion recently to view the condition of some of the books returned from various students after last year's rental. We acknowledge that some of the damage was caused by previous users, but in many cases the condition of many books was pathetic — pages removed, scribbled pages, cartooned pages and deliberately mutilated covers.

Our plea is as simple as this. If we as parents had to purchase these books initially for each of the senior grades, it would cost approximately thirty dollars per year. We therefore ask that each parent, where applicable, impress upon the student the need to help preserve the books entrusted to them.

Please remember that it is the cost of replacement and repair that determines the rental rate. An ounce of prevention now could result in reduction in rental fees later.

HATS OFF

To all those who displayed their green thumb this summer and got behind the beautification campaign with so much effort, our congratulations and thanks.

Spotted throughout the whole of the PMQ area were many displays of personal pride in homes and gardens. Even those without flowers who spend many hours building up their lawn to a state of a lush carpet are to be commended for their efforts.

We think too that particular mention should be made for what appears to be a combined neighborhood project by the residents of Algonquin Place in the northeast corner of camp. They have prepared and maintained a solid front of horticultural beauty that would be hard to find anywhere else.

This, coupled with the many individual displays has proven the contagion of beauty. It has increased over precious years, and, we trust, will become an uncontrollable epidemic next year.

Let's Not Panic Over Thalidomide

By Colin Nickerson

In the uproar caused by deformed children being born to women who have used drug Thalidomide and the subsequent demand by many prospective parents that the laws concerning abortion be amended, a most important point has been overlooked. The assumption is that the lives of these children would be ruined and it would be better to have them remain unborn.

This is not necessarily so. The world is full of many deformed and handicapped people who live useful and happy lives. Every day we see evidence that people supposedly incapacitated are capable of an inventiveness and ingenuity no one would have thought possible. Think of Walter Callow, blind and completely paralyzed, yet inventor of the Callow Wheel Chair Bus — a priceless boon to wheel chair patients! Think of Earl Bailey, paralyzed from the neck down, world famous painter who can only use his mouth! Think of a young lad in the Colonel Mewburn Pavilion also paralyzed from his neck down who is completing his University course and writes his exams with his mouth! There are countless thousand others, victims of war, disease or accident.

But man has progressed, not in spite of adversity but because of adversity. The great peoples of civilization are those who had overcome hardship. Man has made himself a little lower than the angels because no river has ever been too deep to cross, no mountain too high to climb. Hilary said the reason he wanted to climb Everest was simply "because it was there." This has always been man's crowning glory — his response to challenge.

Let us not throw our hands up in despair over what has happened with Thalidomide. It will doubtless happen again in some other way. It is tragic but it is not a disaster. These young children will be handicapped but not disabled. Much of the world is still open to them. Who knows what fresh discoveries and insights they may bring to it?

CADETS COMPLETE SUMMER CAMP

BANFF, Alta. — Two hundred and fifteen youths from Royal Canadian Army Cadet corps across Canada spent a month at the Canadian Army's national cadet camp in Banff National Park in August.

The boys are the top cadets from some 75,000 members of the cadet movement in the country. The Army operates the camp as a "reward camp" for their proficiency in cadet training.

Selection is made on a quota basis from each the four Army Commands and candidates are chosen from those achieving the standard of master cadet, combined with athletic and scholastic ability.

The four weeks is divided into periods of general military training, recreational training

This year there were also 24 cadets from Jamaica at the camp on exchange, while the same number of Canadian boys visited Jamaica.

Award CD'S

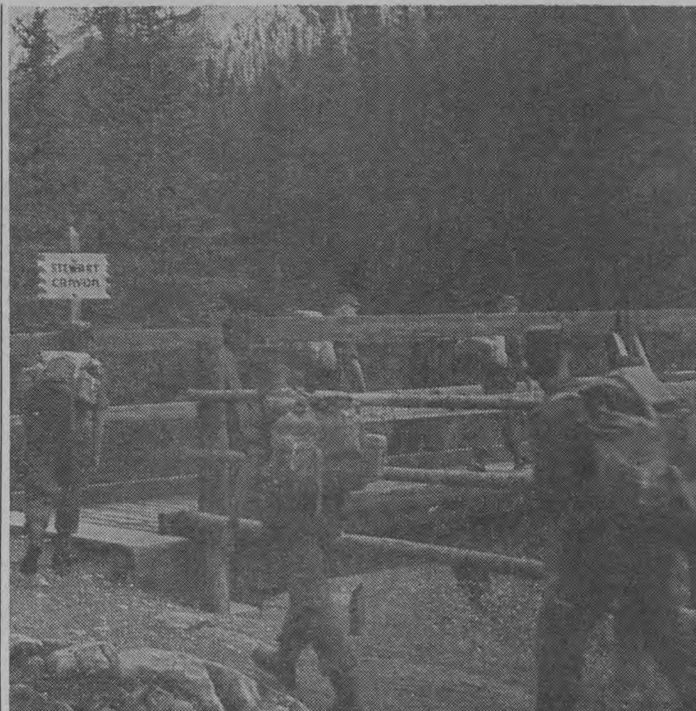

EDMONTON — Six Edmonton soldiers have been awarded the Canadian Forces Decoration, it was announced by Western Command headquarters.

They are Sgt. M. L. Durand, Royal Canadian Army Service Corps; Sgt. F. G. MasPhee, Royal Canadian Engineers; Sgt. D. G. McKee, RCASC; Sgt. B. A. Nelles, Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers; Cpl. D. McDonald, Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and L/Cpl. R. C. McLean, Canadian Provost Corps.

The decoration is awarded after completing 12 years exemplary service in the Canadian Armed Forces.

Adding the international flavor, Jamaican Cadets lower the flag at retreat ceremony celebrating the 1st anniversary of their independence

Much of the sight seeing and probably the most interesting, was done on foot during the many hikes.

Training in Judo was among the many sports activities.

Proficiency in wood craft was another of the arts picked up by the cadets.

Members of the New Glasgow High School pipe band during the retreat ceremony at Banff Springs Hotel

During off-duty hours, guided tours were available to all Cadets and here the Cave and Basin was one of the stop overs.

Scholarship Awarded Griesbach Students

Of four scholarships awarded at Queen Elizabeth High School recently, three went to students attending from the Griesbach Garrison.

The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization Scholarship was awarded to Jim Nickerson of PMQ 193 for proficiency in Science. His award entitles him to a weeks residence and instruction at the University of Alberta.

A United Nations Banff Scholarship was awarded to Helen Millen of PMQ 20 and Michael Smith of PMQ 234 for proficiency in Social Studies. Their award entitles them to a week at the Banff School of Fine Arts.

All three students attended their respective institutions during the week of 19 Aug. 62.

To A.H.Q.

Hints for Homemakers

To keep the bloom on peaches, try this method suggested by Macdonald Institute. Pour boiling water on the peaches, (blanch) for a minute. Then dip in cold water. The skin will come off very easily, and the rosy hue will remain on the peach.

PROMOTED

EDMONTON — Regimental quartermaster sergeant (WO 2) Harry Taylor of Calgary has been promoted to that rank from staff sergeant and posted to the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry Depot in Edmonton.

RQMS Taylor enlisted in the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps in 1937 and served in the United Kingdom from 1940 to 1943 when he returned to Canada to attend OCTU.

He also served in Japan in 1953.

Prior to his present posting he was company quartermaster-sergeant with the Western Command Provost Company in Edmonton.

His wife Lena and four children live at 14604 - 103 St., Edmonton.

To Command H.Q. as Paymaster

CALGARY — Captain Robert W. Storey of The Royal Canadian Army Pay Corps has been posted to Headquarters Western Command in Edmonton as Paymaster of Miscellaneous Units.

Association Again Sponsor Book Rental Plan

Continuing an established community service, the text book rental plan will be operated again this year by the Griesbach Community Council for the benefit of Senior High School Students.

The rental fee will be $10.00, with a refund of $5.00 if the student terminates his studies prior to 1 Jan. 63. This fee is necessary to ensure that the rental plan is self-sufficient and is not a drain on community funds.

In order to keep this plan self-sufficient and ensure its availability for future classes, the Griesbach Association has emphasized that it is most important that students exercise care in handling their text books. Text books that are damaged or lost will be charged to the student at full replacement cost.

Nuts and Bolts

This column was missing from the last edition of The Bugle, however, we will endeavour to enlarge on the Corps in this article.

Postings have held the limelight as far as news is concerned. We have had the following new members report in:

S/Sgt. W. Hightower now employed as the Supervisor in the Ancillary Section.

Sgt. S. Wells employed in the Weapons Section.

Sgt. W. Laine employed in the Instrument Section.

Cfn Q. Wright a helping hand in the Vehicle Section.

Last but not least our Production Supervisor WO 2 R. M. Storbo.

The unit welcomes you one and all and hopes your stay here is a happy one.

Cfn. Winkel and Poirier have left the unit for courses at The RCEME School.

Our annual summer vacationers have returned to the unit after a summer holiday in the wilds of Camp Wainwright. From all appearances the time must have been spent out doors as they are all sporting a wonderful tan.

Cpl. Quelch is still on the sick list and confined to Coloned Mewburn Hospital. Cfn. Beatty has been released from Hospital and is enjoying his sick leave.

Cfn. N. Adamson has transferred from 2 PPCLI and is diligently working in 13 Company RCEME Orderly Room.

This completes the news for this unit as holidays have removed numerous faces from the workshop for the last five weeks. Will be back next month with news on our picnic.

"Owl Observation"

by Rae Burton, Revelscke, B.C.
(From the Canadian Guider)

Sing a song of sadness
A pocketful of woe,
Four and twenty Brownies
Are feeling very low.
Lost their nice Tawny Owl
Don't know what to do,
And Brown Owl is so overworked
That she may vanish too.
Sing a song of sadness
A teardrop in your eye,
Still the job goes begging
As no one will apply.
Four and twenty Brownies
Begin to feel the lack,
Now isn't that an awful way
To treat a Brownie Pack?
Everyone loves Brownies
And wants one in the home,
A Pixie, a Leprechaun,
A Fairy, or a Gnome.
Oh, everyone loves Brownies
Or so we understand;
The question is — who cares enough
To come and Lend? a-Hand?

By the way while we're on the subject we have a good square dance club going at RCAF Station Namao and starting September 15th and every Saturday night thereafter, we'll be having the gayest of times. Why don't you come and join us!

We dance in the Scout Hall, first building to your right at the blinking light coming from town. We'll be starting at 2030 ending at 2300 hrs. with refreshments. Oh yes, the story — well pardner, you'll have to come to the hall yourself to hear it — it's a good one.

Ralph Sheppard is Choir Master and Mrs. Gwen Kitchen is organist.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

The Chapel Sunday School will reopen for the fall and winter season at No. 1 School Sunday morning, September 9th. Capt. Hugh Wray has asked that, for this first session only, children try to be at No. 1 School at 10:30 a.m. because of the difficulties of organizing. Regular sessions will continue to be held at 10:45 each Sunday except for Family Sundays on Thanksgiving and Christmas and New Year. Sunday School is for children ages 4 - 12 inclusive. Up to 4 years are taken care in the Church Nursery. The Bible Class, which is for ages 13 up will begin meeting Sunday, Sept. 9 at 9:45 a.m. in the Conference Room.

There is always a need for Sunday School teachers and those who are willing to undertake this good work and have not taught here before are asked to contact Capt. Wray GR 7-8837 or the Chapel Office Local 533. We hope all last years teachers still in Camp will continue to carry on.

LABOUR DAY

We live in an age of shoddy workmanship and poor quality merchandise. Everywhere the cry is for more money and less work. Where our forefathers looked upon their work with pride and actually loved to work today work is looked on as a necessary evil to be performed with reluctance and "sluffed off" as quickly as possible.

It must have come as a great surprise to people when Jesus said: "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work." What! Does God work? Certainly He does and so did Jesus. Work has never been a dishonourable thing but in this new light it holds a much higher place than man has been willing to give it. To work is God-like. Man was meant to work and to do his work well. There is no automatic "pie in the sky when we die." "That which thy hand findeth to do, do with all thy might."

To One of His Younger Performers, — Shakespeare Put It This Way

Give thy thoughts no tongue
Nor any unproportioned thought his act.
Be thou familiar, but by no means vulgar.
The friends thou hast, and their adoption tried,
Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel;
But do not dull thy palm with entertainment
Of each new-hatcht, unfledged comrade. Beware
Of entrance to a quarrel; but being in,
Bear't, that the opposed may beware of thee.
Give every man thine ear, but few thy voice;
Take each man's censure, but reserve thy judgement.

Costly thy habit as thy purse can buy,
But not exprest in fancy; rich not gaudy:
For the apparel oft proclaims the man;
And they in France of the best rank and station
Are most select and generous,
chief in that.
Neither a borrower nor a lender
be:
For loan oft loses both itself and friend;
And borrowing dulls the edge of husbandry...
This above all, — to thine own self be true;
And it must follow, as the night
the day,
Thou canst not then be false to any man.

The hunter hadn't seen a sign of ducks all day so when he came to a pond and saw an old farmer standing beside a "No Hunting" sign with his gun he had a bright idea. He said, "I'll give you $1 if you'll let me take one srot at those ducks."

"I don't mind," said the old man.

The hunter shot and killed a duck. He said to the old man, "It looks like I got the best of the bargain."

"I wouldn't be too sure," said the old man. "They aren't my ducks and I don't own this pond."

GRIESBACH PONY LEAGUE —

The Griesbach Pony League was organized in June consisting of three teams. Unfortunately, due to school examinations, it was only possible to play six games.

It was hoped to get the league going again in July, but due to summer holidays and Young Soldiers' Summer Camps there were not enough boys to continue.

If there are enough boys still interested in playing, Sgt. Turnbull is willing to start the games again the 1st of September.

Sgt. Turnbull may be contacted at 14104 - 101 Street, PMQ 199, Telephone 477-7362.

golf

The Griesbach Garrison Golf Association, in spite of the hordes of immigrant mosquitoes and frequent summer thunder showers, has continued its successful operations throughout the summer.

The calibre of golf has improved considerably over the past two months. This is probably the direct result of more practice and better playing conditions. So far we have received only 382 complaints from the Griesbach Golf Widows Association. This is down 27 percent from this time last year. Most encouraging!

Our fourth monthly stroke play tournament was played 8, 9, and 10 August with 56 players competing. Prizes were awarded on basis of both Callaway and individual handicaps. As might be expected, the acting handicap chairman won low net honours with a phenomenal 58. At this time, the Area Commander is pondering the advisability of ordering a summary investigation.

Our Garrison Match Play tournament is dragging its heels a bit. Major Freeborn and Sgt. Milbrath have reached the finals of the A Division, Captain Lucas has won the B Division, while five golfers still remain in the C Division eliminations.

Our final wind-up tournament is planned for late September. The tournament will be followed by the presentation of prizes and trophies. Further details will be published later.

Griesbach Tennis Club

Tennis has not been active the last few weeks because of the summer leave period. Captain Doug Hardy and Lt. Al Pollock are regular players and since since Capt. Bill Botting has returned from leave no doubt there will be a revival of the old active playing.

Capt. Tony Hawkins has been in Calgary and the regular players have not been able to profit from the famous "Hawkins Chop" which is the hottest and most effective return since Bill Tilden turned professional years ago.

Also it was with much regret that club members said "au revoir" to Keith Hutton who left for England in July. Keith has been a stalwart of the club and his departure has certainly been felt.

In the May 24th issue of the Camp Gagetown Gazette we were pleased to read that Capt. Jock Pinault was the president of the Oromocto Tennis Club. Under Jock's guiding hand Oromocto should have a good club. No doubt he will introduce club members to the square "Warwick" tennis balls which he insisted on using while at Griesbach. Jock considered the Warwick balls much superior to those of Slazenger or Dunlop.

Everyone who is interested in playing tennis is encouraged to make use of the courts at the Hamilton Gault Barracks. In addition, don't forget that two indoor courts are available in the drill hall. This means that tennis is a year-round sport for military personnel and their dependents.

bantam football

The Griesbach Council will again sponsor a football team in the Edmonton Bantam Football League. Any boy between the ages of 12 - 14 inclusive who can weigh in at 135 lbs. is welcome to try for a position.

Circulars will be distributed throughout the PMQ Area indicating the date and time practice sessions will commence.

Westlock Local Lake

Good fishing still will be found readily in many Alberta lakes and streams in spite of fish population loss because of the recent severe winter, as the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests fish stocking program moves into full swing.

The Fish and Wildlife Branch's 200 gallon tank truck, specially fitted with oxygen equipment, recently visited Cottage Lake (Edmonton Beach) 28 miles west of Edmonton and introduced to the water 80,850 rainbow trout fingerlings.

The healthy young fish, which were raised at the Department of Lands and Forest Fish Hatchery at Calgary, were transported directly from the southern city and poured by hose into the lake.

The problem of winter kill was more severe than usual this year. A gill net test of Cottage Lake in the early spring resulted in only one perch being caught where in previous years a similar test would have yielded several hundreds of perch. There was no sign of rainbow trout.

Lands and Forest Chief Fisheries Biologist Martin Paetz estimates the new stock will be ready for anglers in the late fall and by next year will be a good size.

The program of stocking Alberta lakes will see approximately 2½ million fish ranging in size from two inch fingerlings to the larger six and seven inch yearlings introduced to Alberta waters from the Calgary Fish Hatchery this summer.

GOLF!

It started way back

Early golf as it was played 200 years ago was quite similar to today's game as far as rules were concerned. Today's National Open is conducted under rules quite similar to those devised by our ancestors 200 years ago in the White Horse Cellar. The playing equipment and conditions were at great variance. Early golf balls, for instance, were made of wood until 17th and 18th centuries when they were made of various materials stuffed hard into a case of leather. Wool, straw, hemp and similar substances were used; but the best, and those which ultimately came into universal use, were easily cut, and in wet weather became sodden and liable to burst and "mould their feathers." A player was indeed fortunate if his ball endured two rounds.

In 1848 or '49, the idea seems to have occurred to several people to make golf balls of gutta-percha, then a new importation. The first attempts were unsuccessful as the balls would not fly straight; but it was soon noticed that after a ball had been played a while it flew better. Balls were accordingly marked by blows of a sharp hammer in crossed lines before being painted and from that moment on began to oust the feather balls, remaining in general use until 1901-02 when the American or rubber-cored ball took over.

Although the game of golf had been played in Scotland for upwards of five centuries, club-making didn't really come into its own until the feather ball era. Clubs, which were at first rudimentary, tended toward the end of that period to be long, thin and graceful; and the feather ball was swept from the ground with a full swing.

The great club-maker of the period was Hugh Phillip, who was born at St. Andrews. His successors, Robert Forgan, "Old Tom" Morris, Laurie Auchterlonie of St. Andrews and Douglas McEwan of Leith and Musselburgh, for years followed the general lines of the great master's models.

With the advent of the gutta-percha ball, the long, thin and graceful clubs of the feather ball era gradually became shorter and squatter. Hard thorn was discarded for the softer apple, pear and beech in the heads, leather inserts appeared in the aces, and hickory replaced ash in the making of shafts. Iron clubs increased in both number and variety and became vastly more refined.

The increase in the number of clubs brought about another innovation in the late nineties, that of a single sailcloth bag in which to carry them. Previously, the few clubs a player might need had been carried loose under the arm.

In the latter part of the 18th century, the ordinary dress of the golfing "buck" consisted of a red coat, cut rather long, with side pockets; knee breeches, white stockings, buckled shoes and for head gear a tall hat or a Tam O'Shanter bonnet. Around the turn of the century, considerable attention was given to the question of golfing attire, and each club had its own uniform, which was "de rigueur" at all club meetings and functions. Those who appeared in ordinary civilian attire were fined in dozens of drinks which were consumed then and there, or at the first opportunity, by their outraged fellow members.

As for the courses, they were very rough and uncared for — simply "nature unadorned." In those days the game was played entirely on common land and its proper and natural home was the links by the seaside.

Hazards — bunkers, roads, etc., were all accepted as they stood. There was also no provision for loose impediments. The player was expected to take whatever fortune befell him and overcome it, if he could, by his own skill.

The early golf societies, at the Links of Leith and St. Andrews, forerunners of our golf and country clubs, shared the links with the general public, and had no special privileges other than those granted them by courtesy. Townspeople held festivals and went picnicking at will, but perhaps worst of all — sheep, rabbits and geese had as much title to use of the links as the golfer.

GOLF!

Oldest of the early golf societies was The Honourable, the Edinburgh Company of Golfers, or, as it was first called, the Company of Gentlemen Golfers, founded in 1744. Their home was the historic Links of Leith, near Edinburgh.

Since members of these early societies played on public land and had no club houses to call their own, they usually congregated at convenient inns and taverns. One of Edinburgh's more popular meeting places for golfers and celebrities was The White Horse Cellar coaching inn. Located in the fashionable Cannongate section of town, in the oldest house in the city known to have been used as an inn, the Cellar was one of the city's most important hostleries and the center of its top social life.

Here golfers and such distinguished personalities as Robert Burns, James Boswell, David Hare, and Adam brothers toasted the game and each other with a "cratur" so good it made the inn famous. This was golf's original 19th hole.

It was at the White Horse, during the winter of 1743, "that several Gentlemen of honour, skillful in the ancient and healthful exercise of golf," met to prepare the Articles and Conditions for the first annual open championship — "open to Noblemen, Gentlemen, or other golfers, from any part of Great Britain or Ireland." The quote is from their original articles.

The Cellar is considered so important historically that the British Government is in the process of restoring its earlier glory as part of its reconstruction and rehabilitation of "old" Edinburgh.

An interesting device is available to country clubs through the courtesy of Browne-Vintners Company. It is a perfect replica of the insignie that identified the White Horse Cellar in 1742. Suitably inscribed with the club's name, without advertising, it is presented for use in the club's own 19th hole. It is called The Insignie of Golf's Orivinal 19th Hole.

It Didn't Get Away

The holiday paid off for Cpl. Jack Cowan of 10214 - 137A Ave, Griesbach while he and his wife were holidaying at Sanca Park near Creston, B.C. recently.

In photo above, Cpl. Cowan holds the eight pound trout he took from Midge Creek on the 11th of August. The fish measured twenty-seven and a half inches long, was caught on a six pound test line and took over fifteen minutes to bring into the boat.

It Backfired!

Truth is indeed stranger than fiction!

A member of the Walcot and Parks (Wilts) Branch of the British Legion discovered that a typist's error dated his paybook 1059 instead of 1959. Hopefully, he sent in a request for arrears of pay for nine hundred years and received the following reply from the appropriate branch of the War Office:

"Your request for arrears of pay since the year 1059 has been noted and, in accordance with the pay scales over the last 900 years, your account has been credited with the sum of £362,552.17.10. However, we must point out that according to the records, you are the only surviving soldier of the Battle of Hastings, in 1066. As you are no doubt aware, the military regulations of that date insist that the one and only survivor of any battle is responsible for all equipment and horses lost. We must point out, therefore, that the actual loss sustained by the English Army at Hastings amounts to no less than £362,553, and we have been obliged to debit your account with that sum. This means that you are now in the position of owing the Paymaster-General the sum of 2s 2d., and we would be glad to receive a remittance for this amount at your earliest convenience."

Mosaic Maps Reveal History of Alberta

Aerial photographs of the province of Alberta which, if joined together, would make a photographic mosaic of the province 63 feet long and 30 feet wide, have been assembled into 764 sectional mosaics by the Technical Division of the Alberta Department of Lands and Forests. Each of the sections covers a land area of approximately 340 square miles, and is made of up to 50 individual camera shots.

The mosaics, reproduced to the scale of one inch to a mile, required about five years to assemble. Original pictures from a 1949-52 aerial survey.

Assembly of the unique mosaics required expert and careful work, and called for methods of reproduction to overcome variations of camera level at time the picture was taken.

The high altitude photographs reveal many topographic features of significance to geologists, and past river routes are clearly shown; scars of the ice age when the earth was subject to pressures of glacial bodies stand readily seen. To the trained geological eye, potential oil and mineral deposits can be pinpointed.

Demand for the mosaics will increase as their uses become better known. Technical Division officers declare. Research Council scientists have already made good use of the mosaics in their recent groundwater survey.

A new concept in emergency bandaging and splinting, using clear vinyl plastic under pneumatic pressure, has been introduced. Bandage-splint provides immediate control of venous bleeding and prevents injury edema. Pneumatic pressure can be applied simply by mouth exhalation into an adjustable valve. This pressure creates an instant splint and also is effective as an emergency bandage for burns. Since the appliance is transparent, constant observation of the injury is possible.

Several models of the bandage are available — for hands, arms, feet, and legs.

This new bandage, which permits X-raying of the injury during examination and before treatment, is expected to be valuable for physicians' offices, industrial first aid and hospital emergency rooms, and summer camps.

Liqua-Tip felt markers are designed along the lines of a fountain pen. They are said to offer many advantages over the can type markers. As this marker is designed as a writing instrument, it is easier and more comfortable to use. Also barrel of the marker is color-keyed for fast color selection.

England's famed white cliffs are composed of single-celled sea organisms which died millions of years ago.

The little tot was sitting demurely on the couch watching her mother smoking a cigarette. Her nose was wrinkled, and in her pale blue eyes was an expression of child disillusionment. Finally, unable to stand any longer, she blurted out in her quivering voice, "Mother, when are you going to learn to inhale?"
